Missionary of the Week: Garrett Schlake

*There are many changes happening within The Navigators of France. There are two new city ministries starting by two French couples (one in Paris and the other in Lyon) But also big changes for the staff of Tours. *Thys will be going off staff in August. He will stay in France after his marriage to Céline and do ministry on the side. Delphine and Solveig are moving to other countries to do training with The Navigators. Delphine to New Zealand and Solveig to Scotland. Jaap and Lauri will be moving back to The Netherlands in June. Jaap will be taking the leadership role for the Dutch Navigators for sending missionaries overseas. *With all these changes and other factors at play, The U.S. Navigators will not be sending missionaries to France for quite some time and recently asked me to look into another ministry if I wish to stay in France. This is the situation I am in now. *My girlfriend, Joanna, works fulltime with a French ministry called GBU who is partnered with an American student ministry called InterVarsity. Joanna and I have already talked seriously about getting engaged, and both our parents are aware of the fact that this may happen within the next few months. *I am currently filling out paperwork and contacting folks from InterVarsity and The Navigators. Navigator Leadership supports this decision, but I want to be sure I think through this thoroughly and bring it to God before making the decision. Please pray for this, and I will inform you whenever I find out more! *With language school being done I need to be self-disciplined to continue language learning. It is quite repetitive, but extremely necessary!
